

ROSWELL

The tea planned by Mrs. R. E. Morris for the family of the Roswell high school and their families Wednesday afternoon, was to have been a reunion tea, but when the host found out about it, he decided it would be a "man's tea" with most delicious results. The Morris home was most attractive for the occasion, in Halloween array, centering in a wonderful witch's booth, with a witch pouring over the fortune teller. The witch was a mystery, and the high school center of attraction of the afternoon, and remained a mystery until the very last, when it was revealed as Clark Dilley. A gay witch dance was performed by two members of the faculty to add to the jollity which was rounded out by stunts and songs. A delicious buffet luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon. About 35 guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Morris.

The tea for the Altar Guild of St. Andrews church held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jos. De Graffenreid, was a lovely affair. The home was beautifully decorated with "mums" and autumn foliage and softly lighted with jack-o-lanterns. A graceful ghost received at the door. The tea table was unique in its trappings of Halloween, centered with a rustic fence enclosing a miniature pumpkin field, the vines clambering over the fence bearing jack-o-lanterns, and black cats perched on the fence. Mrs. Dan Cooley cut tea, and Mrs. W. T. Joyner served tea with cakes and candies, assisted by Misses Ethel De Graffenreid, Margaret Hinson and Mrs. H. G. Spratton. During the hours Miss Lillian Kelton sang most delightfully.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jaffa were hosts at their home Wednesday night, entertaining with a dinner-bridge in compliment to Mrs. Robert L. Ervin, of Santa Fe. Lovely "mums" were used about the rooms and an elaborate dinner was served at small tables. Following dinner, bridge was played at six tables, and in the games the high score fell to Miss Esther Prager and J. J. Jaffa.

Mrs. Eliza White was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a one o'clock luncheon to the Merrie Wives club. The Halloween color scheme was carried out in the house decorations, and a delicious chicken menu was served at a table lovely with flowers and emblems of the season. The afternoon was spent over sewing, about a grate fire and later the club attended the Altar Guild tea at the home of Mrs. Jos. De Graffenreid.

The annual Halloween party of the Marchettes was held Wednesday evening at the hall, and was a brilliant success. The hall was decorated with flowers and emblems of the season, and the guests came in costume. They were welcomed by a witch, who introduced them to a departed spirit, who gave a clammy handshake, and ushered them into the main hall. After all had assembled the lights were suddenly turned out, and under a ghastly red glow departed spirits entered from every door, and executed a weird ghost dance, chanting a mournful dirge. In response to a hearty wailing, they responded with an equally mournful encore. Musical numbers were given during the evening, and fortunes were told. Delicious pumpkin pie, coffee, sandwiches and pickles were served to the 150 present, and dancing rounded out the evening.

The older members of the music classes of Miss Virginia Lockhart met at the studio Wednesday afternoon for a musical program, and Halloween party. A spooky ghost welcomed the guests into darkened rooms, and a program of musical numbers by members of the club was given. Afterward merry club was given. Halloween games were played and refreshments of ice cider and ginger cake were served to the twenty-five guests present.

Mrs. W. G. Utton and Mrs. Mildred Boone were joint hostesses Thursday to the Roswell Reading club, at the home of Mrs. Boone. Autumn leaves and yellow mums were used in carrying out the Halloween color scheme of yellow and black, and a pleasant afternoon was spent in contests and chatting. The hostesses were assisted by Miss Alice Boone. Delicious refreshments, reflecting the tones of the decorations, were served, and the guests were entertained by two Halloween imps, Mary Alice Gettys and Billie Davison.

J. P. White was host Thursday evening at his home, at a dinner party to a few old friends. The beautifully appointed table was
